PRODUCTION NOTES

Our 2017 Sonoma Coast Pinot Noir is a blend of our three Pinot Noir vineyard sources: Gap's View, Sun Chase and Platt Vineyard. The black fruit character of Gap's View combined with the red fruit profile of Sun Chase makes a very interesting blend. Add in a bit of Platt Pinot Noir with its soaring aromatics and you have a really remarkable AVA wine. Our Pinot Noir fermentations typically include a 3-4 day cold soak followed by fermentations that last between 10 and 15 days. We don't have a dogmatic approach to including whole clusters, but some ferments can include between 10-20%.

TASTING NOTES

The 2017 Flanagan Pinot Noir Sonoma Coast displays a black fruit profile, characteristic of the sites used for the cuvee. The nose is dominated by pomegranate, Bing cherry, and red raspberry with hints of clove, nutmeg and orange blossom. These notes continue on the palate. The wine is very pretty, nicely focused, and finishes with good acidity. Our Sonoma Coast Pinot Noir engenders a fun debate about whether blending wines from several great sites can produce a wine as, or even more, compelling than a wine from a single vineyard.
